

Space Issues?
Learn how to create more space with furniture.

Check our monthly issues

facebook | join our group +

In this Issue:

- Bed Small space solution with the a desk/bed conversion and hide away beds
- Garage Spring has sprung, so get your shed and garage ready for summer
- Spring The seasonal clothing switch arrives earlier than expected this year... are you ready?

Lehigh Valley, PA
(610) 433-0933
www.creativeclosets.com

Are you a Facebook user? Join our Facebook group today and learn about these new dual-function bed options that will help you save space.

facebook | join our group +

Comfortable Conversion

New Desk/Bed offers an artful, small space solution

Working in a small space that needs to be multi-purposed? Creative Closets now offers a new, innovative product that is beautifully designed to meet all of your organizational needs in one space...the Desk/Bed.

Artfully crafted and quality designed and constructed, the Desk/Bed acts as an office by day and bedroom by night without the hassle of removing anything on your desk. Simply lower the bed for a restful night's sleep. Come morning, fold the bed up and resume your work, really! There's no need to remove anything; all of your desk items stay in place.

Picture your home office with more space and the ability to entertain overnight guests with a hidden bed. The product is ideal for small apartments, guest rooms, children's bedrooms, and even college dorm rooms.

Another space-saving bed option to consider is the Murphy Bed, a bed that can be folded into a cabinet when not being used. The Murphy Bed is a great option to consider for your family pet, like my dog "Diesel".

Multi-purposing a small space can be made simple by using decorative, space-saving options like the Desk/Bed and Murphy Bed.

Switch It Up!

Warm weather is inviting, but changing wardrobe seasons can be daunting. This year, warm weather came quickly, bringing on shorts and t-shirt attire sooner than expected. What is the key to taking on a seasonal wardrobe switch? Ideally being able to house all seasons in one closet would be an answer. Since few people have this type of space organizing efforts at the beginning of your switch helps transform a tedious job into a systematic process. Amid the chaos of finding clothing to wear for the temperature change, there is a solution to make the seasonal transition easier, and that is proper planning.

Pick One Item at a Time

Organize your exchange by starting with one type of clothing such as shirts, suits, etc. Lay them neatly on the bed to make room for the new season's items. Once those are removed, immediately add spring/summer attire to be hung, separating them in the closet by type, color and length.

Following 'Suit'

Follow this same procedure for any remaining clothes, carefully placing them in separate piles for storage. Once that's complete, add all final spring clothing items to your closet space.

Wrapping Up

Lastly, end with your accessories...purses, shoes, belts, and ties, placing them in storage before adding spring accessories to the mix. Come the next seasonal switch, the transition will be smoother. Come spring and summer you'll be set. Here is hoping the warm weather will continue.

If you want to avoid this seasonal switch we may be able to help.

Garage & Shed . . . Overhaul

With spring in bloom, garage and shed accessibility becomes more important. Brooms, garden equipment, pool items, and sand toys are just a few of the many items that need to remain clutter-free for easy use. The solution? Look beyond the floors.

Adjustable StorWall is one solution to create order in the garage. Hang tennis rackets, rakes, shovels, ladders, tools, bins, and shelves with ease using this durable product. Bicycles can be hung by hoists from the ceiling. They can be easily raised and lowered, creating an eye-catching and functional space.

Shed organization can be done in the same manner. Keep smaller items off the floor by using plastic wood to secure hanging bins for chemicals and seed products. Vinyl coated steel shelving is another option. It's ventilated to help eliminate mildew.

About Creative Closets

Our Creative Closets vision started nearly 30 years ago by helping homeowners and businesses greatly improve their organization and improve every room of the home or office.

We take great pride in the quality of our products and in the materials we use. There are a variety of options from economical to luxurious. It depends on what you hope to achieve in the space. How do we know what to use. We work with you to identify your objectives, learn how you intend on using the space, and how much you have set aside in your budget. Every solution we prepare is completely customized to your individual styles and appeal to both sexes.

Get insight ideas from our showroom. We'll show you our diverse selection of materials including vinyl-coated wire, melamine laminates, as well as custom hand-crafted wood cabinetry.

Ellyn G. Elstein
The Closet Lady®